Acknowledgements

The COLBAR-EUROPE project and its data-collection, reports and online webinars were made possible by the great efforts of the teams at WageIndicator Foundation, CELSI, CNEL and coordinator Amsterdam Institute for Advanced Labour Studies at the University of Amsterdam. We are grateful to all Collective Bargaining actors and all Archives of Collective Bargaining Agreements who helped acquiring full text collective agreements from European countries. The webinar could not have been organised without the great efforts of Niels Peuchen and Aakash Bothra.
1 The COLBAR project

The overall objective of COLBAR-EUROPE is to improve knowledge about industrial relations and social dialogue, specifically about the content of Collective Agreements in Europe. It aims to undertake research activities to enhance the collection of comparative information on collective bargaining outcomes in EU Member States and Candidate Countries and at European level. Collective bargaining is key for wage setting and working conditions, but very little is known about what exactly is agreed. Few countries code agreements, but most countries are lacking such overviews, and databases for cross-country comparisons are absent. Since 2014 however associate partner Wagelndicator maintains a database with full text, annotated, and coded Collective Bargaining Agreements (CBAs), using a standard coding scheme. In BARCOM (VS/2016/0106), the Action's predecessor, 120 agreements from the commerce sector from 23 countries were successfully analysed. Social partners expressed their interest in getting for the first time ever insights into the content of Collective Agreements. COLBAR-EUROPE aims to deepen these insights by adding more than 500 agreements plus 25 Transnational Agreements to the CBA Database, now covering commerce, manufacturing, construction and public sectors for EU28 plus 5 candidate countries. Using the coded data of the agreements, the Action's reports focussed on comparisons across industries, on public versus private sector agreements, on wage setting, on trade-offs in the wider bargaining agenda, on possible convergence of agreements concluded by various daughters of the same multinational company or that are related to Transnational Agreements.

Since 2014 however, associate partner Wagelndicator maintains a database with full text, annotated, and coded Collective Bargaining Agreements (CBAs), using a standard coding scheme. In the BARCOM project, the predecessor of COLBAR, 120 agreements from the commerce sector from 23 countries were successfully analysed. Social partners expressed their interest in getting for the first time ever insights into the content of Collective Agreements. COLBAR-EUROPE aims to deepen these insights by adding now already more than 600 agreements - from many different industries - plus 40 Transnational Company Agreements to the European Collective Database.
The Action has prepared reports about agreements in the Visegrad countries, Italy, the Netherlands, and Spain. The reports have been presented at the Main Event in Amsterdam, for which bargaining negotiators from the 33 countries, social partners and other stakeholders were invited. All reports are available at the project website https://wageindicator.org/Wageindicatorfoundation/projects/colbar

Initially, the final event was planned as a conference in Amsterdam, but due to COVID-19, the consortium had to change to an online event. It was organised at February 25, 2021. From mid January onwards, the webinar was widely announced, as the screenshot shows.

<td>Collectively bargaining wages as a tool against poverty? We often assume that collective bargaining is all about wages. In this presentation, Janna Besamusca explores whether this is true to be analysing the way collective agreements in Europe talk about wages. Furthermore, she will present findings about how unequal collectively bargained wages are and the extent to which they are living wages.</td>

Panel Discussion in Dutch with:
- Dutch Confederation of Trade Unions - FNV - Pim Paulusma
- General employers' association AWVN - Laurens Harteveld

About the panel:
Research shows that organizations perform better when they employ people from different cultural and ethnic backgrounds. Striving for diversity and inclusiveness is now commonplace and so is equal pay for men and women. There are still some steps to be taken in these areas in the Netherlands and the question is how. What can for example employers and employees do about it and what role can...
Laurens Harteveld

Collective bargaining agreements play. VNO-NCW and trade union FNV underline the importance of diversity and equal pay. The coded collective agreements within the framework of this COLBAR research project show that collective agreements still contain no or hardly any provisions on diversity, inclusion and equal pay. This raises the question whether social partners have taken steps in this area already and what those steps look like or could be. These questions, among others, are discussed in the panel with representatives of the largest trade unions in the Netherlands and a policy advisor of employers' association AWVN.

The webinar went well, with the exception of a few technical difficulties in the breakout rooms, because there were some unscheduled switches to the main room.
3 Information about the participants

The recruitment activities resulted in 222 subscriptions to the webinar. These persons came from 35 countries, including one called ‘International’ (see Table). At the start of the webinar there were 136 people (signed in before 2.35 PM) and at the end 124 people (which is at 4.10 PM, before the open floor discussion). People also left during or even beforehand the event, of course, but given the first sheet, a lot of people returned quite quickly or later on.

4 What did participants thought about the webinar

To evaluate the webinar, participants were sent an invitation to answer a few questions about the webinar. 43 persons answered the survey.

4.1 Satisfaction with the conference

The graph shows that the vast majority of the participants were satisfied or very satisfied (values 4 or 5) with the webinar.
4.2 Which part(s) of the conference were you satisfied with?

The graph shows that the presentation by Janna Besamusca was most valued, followed by the panel discussion.

![Graph showing satisfaction levels for different parts of the conference]

4.3 Comments

The last question in the survey asked: “Do you have any additional comments regarding the conference? You can share them in your own language”. 21 persons left a comment, which are summarized here:

- the interpretation was also well arranged
- De verbinding viel steeds weg, er was weinig interactie in onze breakout room. En ik hoop dat ook in toekomst voor cao ‘s voor persoonlijke diensten zoals kappers, schoonmaak, texielverzorging worden toegevoegd.
- Jó volt, fontos a téma és sokat kell vele foglalkozni!
- It was a good beginning to discuss important issues and New technique. Nordic countries were missing. English is a good uniting world language. One should always be reminded why we do all this. What is the aim of the project?
- No, I haven't
Some consideration of the impact of Covid-19 on collective bargaining arrangements would have been useful.

Very nice dynamic

Me hubiera gustado participar más del grupo de España, pero tuvimos problemas para permanecer en la sala. De todos modos, estoy muy agradecida por la oportunidad de participar. Espero recibir novedades.

Too less time for discussion

zdá sa, že kolektívne vyjednávanie je na ústupe v celej Európe a za hlavné príčiny považujem: -vlády vo všeobecnosti a slovenské špeciálne, odoberajú kompetencie na rozhodovanie prostredníctvom sociálneho dialógu - kolektívneho vyjednávania - občianska spoločnosť (odborové združenia, zamestnávateľské združenia) je potláčaná politikmi a nijaké kompetencie prakticky nemá -sociálny dialóg je nástroj, ktorého sa politici boja a samozrejme aj zamestnávalia -spoločné európske pravidlá sú nerealizovateľné, kým nie sú spoločné pravidlá aj pre zamestnávanie, vrátane odmeňovania

No, nothing.
- No
Too less time for discussion
Thank you very much for an excellent conference!
sort out the technical issues with breakroom sessions please
IT problems disrupted almost entirely the session
it was not possible to join the Italian Breakout Room
For me, it was very interesting event, I am happy to get know more about Wageindicator and CELSI’s activities and databases. The video saying thank you after the conference was really cute. Ale
It would be useful to develop comparison by country-group shaped by the labour relations institutional differences.

era necessario più tempo per ragionare, soprattutto collettivamente per confrontare le esperienze dei vari paesi
