WageIndicator started in 2001 to contribute to a more transparent labour market for workers and employers by publishing easily accessible information on a website. It collects, compares and shares labour market information through online and face-to-face surveys and desk research. It publishes the collected information on national websites, thereby serving as an online library for wage information, labour law, and career advice, both for workers/employees and employers. The WageIndicator websites and related communication activities reach out to millions of people on a monthly basis. The WageIndicator concept is owned by the independent, non-profit WageIndicator Foundation, established in 2003. The Foundation has offices in Amsterdam (HQ), Ahmedabad, Bratislava, Buenos Aires, Cape Town, Islamabad and Venice.

DECENT WORK QUESTIONNAIRE ................................................................................. 44
INTRODUCTION

Decent Work is the type of work for which all of us aspire. It is done under conditions where people are gainfully employed (and there exist adequate income and employment opportunities); social protection system (labour protection and social security) is fully developed and accessible to all; social dialogue and tripartism are promoted and encouraged; and rights at work, as specified in ILO Declaration on Fundamental principles and Rights at Work and Core ILO Conventions, are practiced, promoted and respected.

WageIndicator Foundation has been working, since late 2007, to raise awareness on workplace rights through a unique tool, i.e., Decent Work Check. The Decent Work Check considers different work aspects, which are deemed important in attaining "decent work". The work makes the rather abstract Conventions and legal texts tangible and measurable in practice.

The Decent Work Check employs a double comparison system. It first compares national laws with international labour standards and gives a score to the national regulations (happy or sad face). If national regulations in a country are not consistent with ILO conventions, it receives a sad face and its score decreases (and vice versa). It then allows workers to compare their on-ground situation with national regulations. Workers can compare their own score with national score and see whether their working conditions are consistent with national and international labour standards. The Check is based on de jure labour provisions, as found in the labour legislation.

Decent Work Check is useful both for employees and employers. It gives them knowledge, which is the first step towards any improvement. It informs employees of their rights at the workplace while simultaneously enlightening employers about their obligations. Decent Work Check is also useful for researchers, labour rights organizations conducting surveys on the situation of rights at work and general public wanting to know more about the world of work. WageIndicator teams, around the world, have found out that workers, small employers and even labour inspectors are not, sometimes, fully aware of the labour law. When you are informed - being a workers, self-employed, employee, employer, policy maker, labour inspector - there is a greater possibility that you ask for your rights (as a worker), you comply with rules (as an employer) and you strive to enforce these (as a labour inspector).

The work is relevant to the challenges posed to the future of work especially the effective enforcement of legislation in financially constrained states, rise of precarious employment and measuring the impact of regulatory regimes.

Currently, there are more than 100 countries for which a Decent Work Check is available here. During 2021, the team aims to include at least 10 more countries, thus taking the number of countries with a Decent Work Check to 115!

ILO Conventions

Minimum wage: Convention 131 (1970)
Regular pay & wage protection: Conventions 95 (1949) and 117(1962)

Montenegro has ratified the Convention 131 only.

Summary of Provisions under ILO Conventions

The minimum wage must cover the living expenses of the employee and his/her family members. Moreover, it must relate reasonably to the general level of wages earned and the living standard of other social groups. Wages must be paid regularly on a daily, weekly, fortnightly or monthly basis.
Regulations on work and wages:

- Labour Law, 2008

Minimum Wage

An employee is entitled to minimum wage for the standard performance and full working hours, or working hours equivalent to full working hours in accordance with the Labour Law, 2008, collective agreement and contract of employment. Minimum wage cannot be lower than 30% of the average wage in Montenegro in the previous six months, according to the official data as determined by the administration body in charge of the statistics. The amount of the minimum wage is determined by the Government of Montenegro upon a proposal from the Social Council of Montenegro, every six months. Minimum wages are also determined at enterprise level (employer’s collective agreement) and branch level agreement.

Source: §80 and 149 of the Labour Law, 2008

Regular Pay

Salary realized by a worker for the work performed and time spent at work, wage compensation and other earnings determined by collective agreement and contract of employment is considered gross salary under the law.

The salary has to be paid in terms and in the manner determined by collective agreement and contract of employment, and at least once a month. An employer must provide the pay slip to the worker upon payment of the salary.

An employer can collect employee’s debts by withholding a portion of his/her salary only based on a final court decision, in cases determined by the law or upon consent from the employee. The withheld portion of an employee’s salary based on a final court decision cannot exceed a half of his/her salary, and one third of the salary or wage compensation for other obligations.

The employer sets the manner of salary payment and it is responsibility for employer to pay salary to employee through bank account. This deadline is set at least once a month through collective agreement and employment agreement.

ILO Conventions

Compensation overtime: Convention 01 (1919)
Night work: Convention 171 (1990)

Montenegro has ratified the Convention 171 only.

Summary of Provisions under ILO Conventions

Working overtime is to be avoided. Whenever it is unavoidable, extra compensation is at stake - minimally the basic hourly wage plus all additional benefits you are entitled to. In accordance with ILO Convention 1, overtime pay rate should not be less than one and a quarter times (125%) the regular rate.

Night work means all work which is performed during a period of not less than seven (07) consecutive hours, including the interval from midnight to 5 a.m. A night worker is a worker whose work requires performance of a substantial number of hours of night work which exceeds a specified limit (at least 3 hours). Convention 171 requires that night workers be compensated with reduced working time or higher pay or similar benefits. Similar provisions fare found in the Night Work Recommendation No. 178 of 1990.

If a worker has to work on a national/religious holiday or a weekly rest day, he/she should be entitled to compensation. Not necessarily in the same week, provided that the right to a paid compensation is not.

If a worker has to work during the weekend, he/she should thereby acquire the right to a rest period of 24 uninterrupted hours instead. Not necessarily in the weekend, but at least in the course of the following week. Similarly, if a worker has to work on a public holiday, he/she must be given a compensatory holiday. A higher rate of pay for working on a public holiday or a weekly rest day does not take away the right to a holiday/ rest.
Regulations on compensation:
- Labour Law, 2008

Overtime Compensation

Normal working hours are 40 hours a week. Working hours with less than 40 hours a week can be established by a collective agreement. Working hours of an employee can last beyond the full-time engagement provided that an unexpected increased workload cannot be completed through adequate reorganization of work or work schedule. Overtime work can only last for such a period required to eliminate the cause of its introduction, but not longer than 10 hours a week.

An employee is required to work overtime in case of prevention of direct occurrence of danger for safety and health of people or larger imminent material damages; natural hazard (earthquake, flood and other); fire, explosions, ionizing radiation and significant sudden breakdown of facilities, equipment and installations; epidemics or diseases threatening human life or health, endangering livestock or herbal stock or other tangible assets; larger pollution of water, food and other objects for human or livestock nutrition; traffic or other accidents that endanger human life or tangible assets to a larger extent; the need to immediately provide urgent medical help or other immediate medical service; the need to perform urgent veterinary intervention; and other cases envisaged by the collective agreement.

The premium for overtime work is determined under the collective agreement or contract of employment.

Night Work Compensation

Work between 10 pm and 6 am is considered night work. The premium for night work is determined under the collective agreement or contract of employment.

A worker who works for at least 3 hours of his/her working hours during night, or a worker who works at least a third of his/her full annual working hours during night, is entitled to special protection.

Compensatory Holidays / Rest Days

Workers are entitled to a weekly rest of at least 24 successive hours. Weekly rest is to be used on Sundays. Furthermore, an employer is to provide another day for an employee to use his/her weekly rest if the nature of work requires so. In case an employee has to work during his/her weekly rest period, the employer is to allow him/her one day of a leave during the following week for at least 24 successive hours. No clear provision on compensatory leave for workers engaged in work on a public holiday.

ILO Conventions

Convention 132 (1970) on Holidays with Pay Convention
Conventions 14 (1921), 47 (1935) and 106 (1957) for weekly rest days.
In addition, for several industries, different Conventions apply.

Montenegro has ratified the Conventions 14, 106 & 132 only.

Summary of Provisions under ILO Conventions

An employee is entitled to at least 21 consecutive days of paid annual leave. National and religious holidays are not included. Collective agreements must provide at least one day of annual leave on full remuneration for every 17 days on which the employee worked or was entitled to be paid.

A worker should be entitled to paid leave during national and officially recognized public holidays.

Workers should enjoy a rest period of at least twenty-four consecutive hours in every 7-day period, i.e., a week.
Regulations on annual leave and holidays:
- Labour Law, 2008

Paid Vacation / Annual Leave

Workers are entitled to paid annual leave. The duration of annual leave is to be determined in proportion to the time spent at work. A worker is entitled to 1/12 of the annual leave for each month of work with an employer if employment commences or terminates during that calendar year. The length of annual leave is determined under the contract of employment or collective agreement however it cannot be less than 20 working days for a calendar year. The teachers, expert-associates, educators in educational institutions are to entitled to an annual leave during the summer vacation which may not last longer than that vacation. An employee under 18 years of age is entitled to annual leave of at least 24 working days.

If an employee has not used his/her annual leave or a part of annual leave in the calendar year due to absence from work in accordance with the regulations on health insurance, maternity or parental leave and leave from work for the purpose of providing child care, he/she will be entitled to use that leave until June 30th of the following year. The payment during annual leave is determined by collective agreement and contract of employment.

An employee who did not use the right to an annual leave or used it partially due to employer's fault is entitled to compensation for damages. The compensation is to be defined on the basis of employee's remuneration for the month during which compensation is made, depending on the length of the unused leave.

Annual leave can be taken in one or two parts, but exceptionally it is taken in several parts by the request of the employee. Employee does not use the annual leave due to temporary disability for work, absence from work for child care, the employee can use or enduring annual leave after returning to work. Employee has the right to use the annual leave within 15 months from the date of employee’s reappearance to work.

Pay on Public Holidays

Workers are entitled to paid absence from work during public and religious holidays. If an employee works during the holidays, he is entitled to increased salary in accordance with collective agreement and contract of employment.

In line with the Law on State and Other Holidays, the state holidays are Independence Day (21 May) and Statehood Day (13 July). Other holidays are New Year’s Day (1 January) and Labour Day (1 May). The state and other holidays are celebrated for two days. If a public holidays falls on a Sunday, the public holidays is moved to the next working day.

Weekly Rest Days

Workers are entitled to a weekly rest of at least 24 consecutive hours. Weekly rest is to be used on Sundays. Furthermore, an employer is to provide another day for an employee to use his/her weekly rest if the nature of work requires workers to work on Sundays. In case an employee has to work during his/her weekly rest period, the employer is to allow him/her one day of a leave during the following week for at least 24 successive hours. Workers under 18 years are entitled to weekly rest of 2 consecutive days of which one is Sunday.

ILO Conventions

Convention 158 (1982) on employment termination

Montenegro has ratified the Convention 158.

Summary of Provisions under ILO Convention

The questions under this section measure the security or even flexibility or precariousness of an employment relationship. Although these are not clearly mentioned in a single convention (severance pay and notice requirement are provided in the Termination of Employment Convention No. 158) however, the best practices in the field require that employees be provided with a written contract of employment; workers on fixed term contracts should not be hired for tasks of permanent nature; a reasonable probation period (ideally lower than or equal to 6 months) may be followed to assess the suitability of an employee; a period of notice must be specified in an employment contract before severing the employment relationship; and workers be paid severance allowance on termination of employment relationship.

A contract of employment may be oral or written however workers should be provided with a written statement of employment at the start of their employment.

Fixed Term Contract workers must not be hired for permanent tasks as it leads to precarious employment.

A reasonable probation period must be allowed to let a worker learn new skills. A newly hired employee may be fired during probation period without any negative consequences.

A reasonable notice period, depending on the length of service of an employee, may be required before an employer may sever the employment relationship.

Employers may be required to pay a severance allowance on termination of employment (due to redundancy or any other reason except for lack of capacity or misconduct).
Regulations on employment security:
- Labour Law, 2008

Written Employment Particulars

Employment relationship is established by conclusion of a contract of employment between worker and the employer. An employment contract is to be concluded prior to commencement of work in written form. If an employer fails to conclude a contract of employment with an employee prior to commencement of work in written form, it is considered that the employee has entered into employment relationship for an indefinite time period, as of the day of commencement of work. In such a circumstance, the employer is to conclude contract of employment for an indefinite time period within three days as of the day of commencement of work.

A contract of employment must contain the name and headquarters of the employer; first and last name of the employee, place of residence, or stay of the employee; citizens’ central register number of the employee, or personal identification number in case of a foreign citizen; type and degree of professional qualification of the employee, or the level of education and occupation; type and description of jobs to be performed by the employee; place of work, the duration of employment relationship (fixed-term or contract for an indefinite time period); duration of a fixed-term contract of employment; the date of commencement of work; working hours; the amount of the basic salary; time-frame for the payment of salary and other benefits to which an employee is entitled; and the use of break during work, daily and weekly break, annual holiday, public holidays and other leave from work.

The employment contract mandatory includes duration of paid leave and annual leave, the notice period for the termination of the employment agreement and terms for a collective agreement that applies to the employer.

Source: §3, 22 & 23 of Labour Law, 2008

Fixed Term Contracts

Employment contracts, as a rule, are concluded for indefinite periods. Similarly, a contract of employment which does not specify the time period of duration of employment is considered a contract for an indefinite period of time. An employment contract can be concluded for a fixed term, for the purpose of performing certain jobs whose duration is predetermined for objective reasons or due to occurrence of unforeseeable circumstances or events. The term of a fixed term contract cannot be longer than 24 months regardless of whether the duration is continuous or with interruptions. A fixed-term contract of employment can last longer than 24 months only if it is necessary for the purpose of substituting a temporary absent employee, performance of seasonal jobs or work on a specific project until the completion of the project, in accordance with the law and collective agreement. Fixed term contract workers have the same rights and responsibilities as indefinite term contract employees.

The text in this document was last updated in December 2021. For the most recent and updated text on Employment & Labour Legislation in Montenegro, please refer to: https://mojarada.me/
Fixed-term contract for 36 months does not include the internships, agreement increase due to temporary inability of work, ground of pregnancy, parental and maternity leave and foster care leave.

Source: §25 of the Labour Law, 2008

Probation Period

The probationary period cannot exceed six months except in case of a crew member of deep-sea merchant marine where a probationary period may be negotiated for a longer period i.e. until the return of the ship into the main harbour.

The extent of probationary period and assessment is defined by collective agreement or employment contract. During the probationary period, probationers have all the rights and responsibilities, arising from the employment relationship. If a worker’s performance is unsatisfactory during the probationary period, the employment ceases at the end of probationary term, as defined under the employment contract. Either party may terminate the employment contract during probationary period by giving a written explanation.

Source: §19 of the Labour Law, 2008

Notice Requirement

There are three types of contract termination: first, by virtue of law; second, by mutual agreement between the employer and employee; third, by notice of termination of employment contract by an employer or an employee.

Employment terminates by virtue of law if the employee reaches the age of 67 years and 15 years of pension insurance unless otherwise agreed; employee has suffered from loss of working ability; as per a court’s decision, the employee is not allowed to perform particular jobs and cannot be deployed to other jobs; where the employee is absent for more than six months due to serving a prison sentence; if a security, correctional or protective measure of more than six months has been pronounced and because of which the employee will be absent from work; or where because of bankruptcy or liquidation the employer has ceased to exist.

Employment can also be terminated due to mutual agreement of employee and employer. This mutual agreement has to be in written form and the employer can provide severance pay to the employee.

Employment can also be terminated by a notice of termination from the employee. Termination of a contract of employment can also be initiated by a parent or a guardian of an employee under the age of 18. An employee is to deliver notice of termination of the employment contract to the employer in written form at least 15 days prior to the day stated as the day of termination of employment.

The text in this document was last updated in December 2021. For the most recent and updated text on Employment & Labour Legislation in Montenegro, please refer to: https://mojazarada.me/
An employer can terminate the employment contract if there is a justified reason. The employment contract can be terminated when an employee fails to meet work results; failure to comply with obligations prescribed by the law, collective agreement and contract of employment; if an employee’s behaviour is such that he/she cannot continue employment; if the employee refuses deployment to another adequate job; if an employee refuses to allow amendment to the employment contract regarding defining of salary; where an employee abuses the right to temporary inability to work; due to economic problems in operations; or in case of technical, technological or restructuring changes.

An employee has the right and duty to remain working for at least 30 days as of the day of receipt of termination notice. An employee can upon agreement with the relevant body of the employer or upon request of the employer can cease to work even prior to expiry of the time period during which he/she has the duty to remain working, and he/she is provided with a wage compensation during that time period in the amount determined by collective agreement and contract of employment.

The law stipulates that due to valid reason employer terminates the employment agreement without conducting a disciplinary procedure.

The collective layoff is conducted in case of planned layoff not less than 20 employees in 90 days. The new law stipulates that it is an obligation to initiates consultation with employees labour union and notify the Employment bureau. Furthermore, the employer cannot hire another employee for the same position period of 6 months.

Severance Pay

In case of a redundancy, the employer is required to deploy the employees to other employment opportunities of the employer or to another employer, and provide additional training if necessary. Where this is not possible, the employer is to pay him/her a severance pay in the amount of at least 1/3 of his/her average monthly pay less the taxes and contributions in the previous six months for each year of employment with the employer, or 1/3 of the average monthly pay less the taxes and contributions in Montenegro, if the latter is more favourable for the employee. The average monthly salary is taken after deducting necessary taxes and contributions.

The severance pay cannot be lower than three average monthly salaries in the last 6 months.

In case of an employed person with disability, the employer is to pay him/her a severance pay of at least 24 average salaries, if the disability was caused by an injury outside work or an illness or at least 36 average salaries, if the disability was caused by an injury at work or a professional disease.
The employee is entitled to receive the severance pay not less than 3 monthly average salary with the exclusion of social contribution in Montenegro.

Convention 156: Workers with Family Responsibilities Convention (1981)
Recommendation 165: Workers with Family Responsibilities (1981)

Montenegro has ratified the Convention 156 only.

Summary of Provisions under ILO Convention

Paternity leave is for the new fathers around the time of childbirth and is usually of shorter duration.

Recommendation (No. 165) provides for parental leave as an option available to either parent to take long leave of absence (paid or unpaid) without resigning from work. Parental leave is usually taken once the maternity and paternity leave have been exhausted. For working parents, laws may define the portion of parental leave that has to be compulsorily taken by fathers or mothers.

Flexible Work Option for Parents / Work-Life Balance Recommendation 165 asks the employers to look into the measures for improving general working conditions through flexible work arrangements.
Regulations on family responsibilities:
  • Labour Law, 2008

Paternity Leave

An employee is to have the right to absence from work with wage compensation (paid absence) in case of parental leave and child birth. The duration of the paid absence is to be determined by collective agreement and contract of employment.

Source: § 72 & 82 of the Labour Law, 2008

Parental Leave

Parental leave is entitlement to one of the parents to use absence from work for the purpose of providing care and nursing to child. Parental leave can be used for 365 days from the birth of the child. The parent can start work even prior to expiry of the parental leave but not before the expiry of 45 days from the birth of the child. However, in such a circumstance, the parent will not be entitled to continue to use parental leave. That being said, the other parent will still be entitled to use the remaining part of parental leave. Also, a child's mother cannot interrupt parental leave prior to expiry of 45 days from the birth of the child.

The employee is entitled to wage compensation in the amount of the salary he/she would earn if he/she was at work in accordance with the law and collective agreement.

Source: § 72, 82, 111 & 111b of the Labour Law, 2008

Flexible Work-Options for Parents / Work-Like Balance

An employee has the right to absence from work with wage compensation (paid absence) in case of a severe illness of a family member. The duration of the paid absence is to be determined by collective agreement and contract of employment. Furthermore, an employee is entitled to paid absence for seven working days in case of death of a closer family member.

An employee is entitled to a wage compensation in the amount determined by collective agreement and contract of employment for leave for the purpose of caring for a child. Furthermore, an employer cannot terminate the employment contract of a parent who is working half of working hours for providing care to a child with severe developmental disabilities, a single parent with a child up to seven years old or a child with severe disability, or with a person using any of the stated rights. Also, absence from work for the purpose of nursing a child and parental leave cannot lead to termination of the employment contract.
An employed woman with a child over two years of age may work at night only if she accepts such work in a written statement. One of the parents with a child with severe developmental disabilities, as well as a single parent with a child under seven years of age may work overtime or at night only based on a written consent.

ILO Conventions

An earlier Convention (103 from 1952) prescribed at least 12 weeks maternity leave, 6 weeks before and 6 weeks after birth. However, a later convention (No. 183 from year 2000) requires that maternity leave be at least 14 weeks of which a period of six weeks compulsory leave should be after childbirth.

Montenegro has ratified both the Conventions 103 & 183.

Summary of Provisions under ILO Convention

During pregnancy and maternity leave, a worker should be entitled to medical and midwife care without any additional cost.

During pregnancy and while breastfeeding, a worker should be exempt from work that might bring harm to you or your baby.

The total maternity leave should last at least 14 weeks.

During maternity leave, a worker’s income should amount to at least two thirds of your preceding salary.

During pregnancy and maternity leave, a worker should be protected from dismissal or any other discriminatory treatment.

Workers have the right to return to same or equivalent position after availing maternity leave.

After childbirth and on re-joining work, a worker must be allowed paid nursing breaks for breast-feeding the child.
Regulations on maternity and work:
• Labour Law, 2008

Free Medical Care

The Law on Health Insurance, 2016 (amended in 2018) and the Law on Health Care 2016 (amended in 2018) have provisions on medical care during pregnancies. Laws provide for preventive examination of pregnant women; examination and counselling 6 weeks after childbirth and once after 6 months, and 3 weeks after spontaneous or permitted abortion or extraterine pregnancy respectively; and visiting nurse of pregnant women with counselling on pregnancy lifestyles, and preparation for childbirth and care of a newborn.

No Harmful Work

Upon recommendation of a medical doctor, a woman during pregnancy and breastfeeding a child can be temporarily deployed to other positions, if it is in the interest of preservation of her health or the health of her child. During temporary deployment, the employee is entitled to the salary corresponding to the position where she worked prior to the deployment. Where this is not possible, the employee is entitled to absence from work, with wage compensation in accordance with the collective agreement, which cannot be lower than the compensation she would receive if she were on her position.

An employed woman during pregnancy and a woman with a child under three years of age cannot work longer than full time hours, or at night.

Maternity Leave

An employed woman can start maternity leave 45 days prior to delivery. The mandatory pre-natal leave is 28 days. Similarly, 45-day leave after birth is compulsory. The maternity leave can be extended to up to 365 days. The employee is entitled to wage compensation in the amount of the salary he/she would earn if she was at work in accordance with the law and collective agreement.

If an employed woman gives birth to a stillborn or if the child dies prior to expiry of the maternity leave, she is entitled to extend her maternity leave for as long as it is necessary, according to the finding of the relevant specialist doctor, to recover from the delivery and the physical condition caused by the loss of the child. This period will at minimum be of 45 days. The employee is entitled to all rights based on maternity leave during this period.
The employed women use the maternity leave of 98 days, 28 days before the expected birth and 70 days from the birth of the child. Exceptionally, maternity leave of 70 days may be taken by both parents at the same time if two or more children are born.

The pregnant employee is entitled to take one day off once a month for prenatal examination. The employee is obliged to inform the employer in writing before the 3 days of appointment for prenatal examination. In case of working employee, she is entitled to salary compensation.

Protection from Dismissals

An employer cannot refuse to conclude a contract of employment with a pregnant woman, or terminate her contract because of pregnancy or if she is on maternity leave. In case of an employed woman whose fixed-term contract of employment expires while she is on maternity leave, the term of employment according to the fixed-term contract of employment is to be extended until expiry of the maternity leave.

Return to the Same Position

There is no provision in law which related to return to the same position. However, since employment of a woman worker is safe during maternity leave, right to return to same position is explicitly provided under the law.
Breastfeeding / Nursing Breaks

The employee is entitled to use, apart from daily break, in agreement with the employer, another 90 minutes for the purpose of breastfeeding her child. The employee is entitled to wage compensation in the amount of the salary he/she would earn if he/she was at work in accordance with the law and collective agreement.

Convention 102 (1952), Conventions 121 (1964) and 130 (1969) concerning Social Security, Employment Injury Benefits and Medical Care and Sickness Benefits

Montenegro has ratified the Conventions 102 & 121 only.

Summary of Provisions under ILO Conventions

A worker’s rights to work and income should be protected when illness strikes. The national labour law may provide that sickness benefit may not be paid during the first 3 days of your absence. Minimally, a worker should be entitled to an income during first 6 months of illness. This income should be at least 45 per cent of the minimum wage. (Countries are free to opt for a system which guarantees 60 per cent of the last wages during the first 6 months of illness or even during the first year). A worker must be entitled to paid sick leave.

During illness, a worker should be entitled to medical care without any additional cost. Employees and their family members should have access to the necessary minimal medical care at an affordable cost.

During the first 6 months of illness, a worker should not be fired.

If a worker is disabled due to an occupational disease or accident, he/she must receive a higher benefit. In the case of temporary or total incapacity/disability, a worker may at least be provided 50% of his average wage while in the case of fatal injury, the survivors may be provided with 40% of the deceased worker’s average wage in periodical payments.
Regulations on sick leave & Employment Injury Benefits:
- Labour Law, 2008
- Safety at Work Law

Income

An employee is entitled to absence from work in cases of temporary inability to work, due to illness, injury at work or other cases in accordance with the regulations on health insurance. The duration of the paid absence is to be determined by collective agreement and contract of employment.

Wage compensation for the first 60 days of incapacity to work is paid by the employer from its funds. On completion of first 60 days, the compensation from the Social Security Fund. Wage compensation is paid out by the employer (during first 60 days) and then the employer gets a refund from the Fund.

Workers are entitled to minimum of 70% of the calculation basis and 100% in case of injury at work or professional disease, pregnancy, voluntarily donation of blood, tissues and organs and treatment of the primary disease. The calculation basis is average wage during the last 3 months.

Employment Injury Benefits: Conventions 121 (1964),
Invalidity, Old age and survivors’ benefits: Convention 128(1967)
Medical Care and Sickness Benefits: Convention 130 (1969)

Montenegro has ratified the Convention 102 & 121 only.

Summary of Provisions under ILO Conventions

In the normal circumstances, the pensionable age may not be set higher than 65 years of age. If retirement age is fixed above 65 years, it should give “due regard to the working ability of elderly persons” and “demographic, economic and social criteria, which shall be demonstrated statistically”. Pension can be set as a percentage of the minimum wage or a percentage of the earned wage.

When the breadwinner has died, the spouse and children are entitled to a benefit, expressed as a percentage of the minimum wage, or a percentage of the earned wage. This must at least be 40% of the reference wage.

For a limited period of time, the unemployed has a right to unemployment benefit set as a percentage of the minimum wage or a percentage of the earned wage.

Invalidity benefit is provided when a protected person is unable to engage in a gainful employment, before standard retirement age, due to a non-occupational chronic condition resulting in disease, injury or disability. Invalidity Benefit must at least be 40% of the reference wage.
Regulations on social security:
- Law on Pension and Disability Insurance, 2003
- Law on Contributions for Mandatory Social Insurance, 2007

Pension Rights

In Montenegro, a person is entitled to an old-age pension upon reaching:

i. the age of 67 (for men and woman) and having accrued 15 years of pension service;
ii. the age of 66 years (men) or 61 years and 6 months (women) and having accrued 15 years of pension service (2019);
iii. 40 years of pension service regardless of the age (men and women);
iv. 36 years and 6 months of pension service and the age of 56 years and 6 months (women) (in 2019);
v. 30 years of pension service, of which minimum 20 years effective work in the mines for which an insurance record at accelerated rate was attributed

An insured person is entitled to early old-age pension upon reaching the age of 62 and minimum 15 years of pension service. For a person whose years of service are accrued at an accelerated rate, the retirement age is reduced in proportion to the degree of insurance acceleration. The degree of acceleration depends upon the type of occupation.

Old age pension is calculated by multiplying the personal points (PP) with the value of the pension for one personal point as on the day of becoming entitled to it. Minimum and maximum pension is determined under a formula, provided under the law.

Dependents’ / Survivors’ Benefits

There is a provision for survivors’ pension under the Law on Pension and Disability Insurance. The eligible beneficiaries are spouse (widower, widow), and divorced spouse if he/she was supported by the deceased; children (born in and out of wedlock or adopted and stepchildren who were supported by the deceased). For entitlement to survivors’ pension, a deceased insured person must have at least 5 years of accrued insurance service or at least 10 years of pension service or who was eligible to old-age or disability pension or a deceased beneficiary of an old-age or disability pension.

A survivor’s pension is determined on the basis of the old-age or disability pension that the insured person would have been entitled to at the time of death, or on the basis of the pension the beneficiary was entitled to at the time of death, in the percentage that is determined based on the number of family members who are entitled to that pension, as follows:

i. 70% for one member;
ii. 80% for two members;

iii. 90% for three members;
iv. 100% for four or more members

If both a spouse and a divorced spouse of a deceased insured person or beneficiary are entitled to a survivor’s pension, one survivor’s pension shall be determined in the amount that one family member is entitled to and shall be divided in equal shares. Full orphans, in addition to a survivors’ pension on the basis of one parent, are entitled to a survivors’ pension on the basis of the other parent as follows:

i. 20% of that pension for 1 child;
ii. 40% of that pension for 2 children;
iii. 60% of that pension for 3 children;
iv. 100% of the old age or disability pension for 4 or more children.

Unemployment Benefits

An unemployed person aged 15-67, being a Montenegrin citizen, registered with the Employment Office of Montenegro, who is capable or partially capable to work, who is not employed and who is actively seeking employment is eligible for unemployment benefits.

An unemployed worker is eligible for unemployment benefit if he, prior to termination, had continuous insured employment of at least 12 months or with interruptions in the last 18 months, provided that his/her employment was terminated involuntarily. The unemployment benefits starts from the first day after termination of employment provided that the worker registers with the Employment Office.

The amount of unemployment benefits is 40% of the minimum wage determined under General Collective Agreement.

Unemployment benefit is granted to an unemployed person for:

1) 3 months if he/she has insured employment from one to five years;
2) 4 months if he/she has insured employment from five to 10 years;
3) 6 months if he/she has insured employment from 10 to 15 years;
4) 8 months if he/she has insured employment from 15 to 20 years;
5) 10 months if he/she has insured employment from 20 to 25 years;
6) 12 months if he/she has insured employment over 25 years.

An unemployed worker is entitled to the benefit until re-employment, if he/she has over 30 years of insured employment (women), or over 35 years of insured employment (men). Similarly, an unemployed person who has over 25 years of insured employment, and being a parent to a person entitled to personal disability benefit, is entitled to cash benefit until re-employment.

Invalidity benefits are the same as disability benefits. Please see under Disability / Work Injury Benefit.
ILO Conventions

Convention 111 (1958) lists the discrimination grounds which are forbidden. Convention 100 (1952) is about Equal Remuneration for Work of Equal Value.

Montenegro has ratified both the Conventions 100 & 111.

Summary of Provisions under ILO Conventions

At workplaces, equal pay for men and women for work of equal value is a must, regardless of marital status. Pay inequality based on race, colour, sex, religion, political opinion, national extraction/place of birth or social origin is also forbidden. A transparent remuneration system and the clear matching of pay and position should be in place and to help prevent wage discrimination.

Not clearly provided in ILO Conventions. However, sexual intimidation/harassment is gender discrimination.

An employer can’t discriminate against you on in any aspect of employment (appointment, promotion, training and transfer) on the basis of union membership or participation in union activities, filing of a complaint against an employer, race, colour, sex, marital status, family responsibilities, pregnancy, religion, political opinion, national extraction or social origin, temporary absence due to illness, age, trade union membership, disability/HIV-AIDS, or absence from work during maternity leave. (Conventions 111, 156, 158, 159 and 183)

People have the right to work and there can’t be occupational segregation on the basis of gender.
Regulations on fair treatment:
- Labour Law, 2008

Equal Pay

An employee, a man or a woman, is to receive the same salary for the same work or work of the same value performed with an employer. In case of violation of this right, an employee is entitled to an indemnification in the amount of the unpaid portion of the salary.

Minimum Age: Convention 138 (1973)
Worst Forms of Child labour: Convention 182 (1999)

Montenegro has ratified both the Conventions 138 & 182.

Summary of Provisions under ILO Conventions

At workplaces, children may not be forced to perform work that could harm their health and hampers their physical and mental development.

All children should be able to attend school. Once this is safeguarded, there is no objection against children performing light jobs between the ages of 12 and 14. The general minimum age is 15 years however developing countries may set this at 14 years. The minimum age for hazardous work, work that is likely to jeopardize the health, safety or morals of young persons, is 18 years. It can also be set at a lower level of 16 years under certain circumstances.

Children should not be employed in a work that is likely to harm the health, safety or morals of children. It is considered one of the worst forms of child labour. The minimum age for such hazardous work is 18 years.
Regulations on minors and youth:
  • Labour Law, 2008

Minimum Age for Employment

An employment contract can be concluded with a person who is under the age of 18, with a written consent from the parents or guardians as long as such work does not compromise his/her health, moral and education, or is not prohibited by law. However, a person under the age of 18 can only enter into an employment only based on findings from a relevant health authority determining his/her ability to perform duties covered by the contract of employment and that such duties are not harmful to his/her health.

In line with article 4 of the Law on Compulsory Education, the compulsory education age in Montenegro is 15 years.

Forced labour: Conventions 29 (1930)
Abolition of Forced labour: Conventions 105 (1957)
Forced labour is the work one has to perform under threat of punishment: forfeit of wages, dismissal, harassment or violence, even corporal punishment. Forced labour means violation of human rights.

Montenegro has ratified both the Conventions 29 & 105.

Summary of Provisions under ILO Conventions

Except for certain cases, forced or compulsory labour (exacted under the threat of punishment and for which you may not have offered voluntarily) is prohibited.

Employers have to allow workers to look for work elsewhere. If a worker is looking for work elsewhere, he/she should not be shortened on wages or threatened with dismissal. (In the reverse cases, international law considers this as forced labour).

If the total working hours, inclusive of overtime exceed 56 hours per week, the worker is considered to be working under inhumane working conditions.
Regulations on forced labour:

- Labour Law, 2008

Prohibition on Forced and Compulsory Labour

In line with article 63 of the Constitution of Montenegro 2007, forced labour is prohibited.

The following are not considered forced labour: labour customary during the serving of sentence, deprivation of liberty; performance of duties of military nature or duties required instead of military service; work demanded in case of crisis or accident that threatens human lives or property.

Freedom to Change Jobs and Right to Quit

Employment can be terminated by a notice of termination from the employee. Termination of a contract of employment can also be initiated by a parent or a guardian of an employee under the age of 18. An employee is to deliver notice of termination of the employment contract to the employer in written form at least 15 days prior to the day stated as the day of termination of employment.

Source: § 142 of Labour Law, 2008

Inhumane Working Conditions

Full-time employment cannot be more than 40 hours a week. Working hours of an employee can last beyond the full-time engagement provided that an unexpected increased workload cannot be completed through adequate organization of work or work schedule. Overtime work can only last for such a period required to eliminate the cause of its introduction, but not longer than 10 hours a week.

Overtime is induced only if there is a necessary reason. Average working time does not exceed than 48 hours per week and within 4 months. For this instance, the maximum weekly working time may not exceed than 50 hours.

ILO Conventions

Freedom of association and protection of the right to organize: Convention 87 (1948)
Right to Organize and Collective Bargaining: Convention 98 (1949)

Montenegro has ratified both the Conventions 87 & 98.

Summary of Provisions under ILO Conventions

Freedom of association means freedom to join a trade union. This is part of the fundamental human rights. Employees may not be put at a disadvantage when they are active in the trade union outside working hours. The list of exclusions for sectors of economic activity and workers in an organization should be short.

Trade unions are entitled to negotiate with employers on term of employment without hindrance. The freedom of a trade union to negotiate with employers to try and conclude collective agreements is protected. (The ILO has a special procedure for handling complaints from unions about violation of this principle).

Workers have the right to strike in order to defend their social and economic interests. It is incidental and corollary to the right to organize provided in ILO convention 87.
Regulations on trade unions:
- Constitution of the Republic of Montenegro
- Labour Law, 2008
- Strike Act
- Representativeness of Trade Unions Act, 2010
- Social Council Act

Freedom to Join and Form a Union

The Constitution of the Republic of Montenegro guarantees the freedom of political, trade union and other association and action, without approval, by the registration with the competent authority. An employee is entitled to form associations, to participate in bargaining when concluding collective agreements, to settle collective and individual labour disputes amicably, to be consulted, informed and to express their position regarding the important issues in respect of employment.

An employee, or a representative of employees cannot be held responsible or placed in a less favourable position with regard to terms of employment due to aforesaid activities if he/she acts in accordance with the Law and collective agreement and contract of employment.

Freedom of Collective Bargaining

An employee is entitled to participate in bargaining when concluding collective agreements, to settle collective and individual labour disputes amicably.

There are three types of collective agreement. First, there is a general collective agreement. It applies to all employers and employees of the country. It is concerning basic elements for defining salary, wage compensation, other earnings of employees and the scope of the rights and obligations arising from employment. Second, there is branch level collective agreement which establishes minimum wage in a correspondent branch of activity, group or subgroup of activity, elements for determining basic salary and other earnings of employees and regulate the scope of the rights and obligations of employees. Third, there is employer’s collective agreement which establishes minimum wage, elements for determining basic salary, wage compensation and other earnings of employees and regulate broader rights, obligations and responsibilities of an employee arising from and based on employment. It is to be signed by be signed between a relevant body of the employer and a representative trade union organization.

Trade union with determined representativeness is entitled to collective bargaining and conclusion of collective agreements; participation in the settlement of collective labour disputes; participation in the work of the Social Council and other tripartite and multipartite bodies; and other rights which are defined by special laws for authorized trade union organization. The general and branch collective agreement shall be registered with the Ministry and published in "Official Gazette of Montenegro". Employees are guaranteed the right to trade union association and activities, without previous approval.

The Social Council is to be founded in order to establish and develop social dialogue regarding the issues of importance for the achievement of the economic and social status of the employees and employers and the conditions for their life and work, development of the culture of dialogue, encouragement to engage in peaceful resolution of individual and collective labour disputes and other issues derived from the international documents that relate to the economic and social status of the employees and employers.

The Social Council is to be established as a tripartite body, consisting of the representatives of the Government of Montenegro, that is, the responsible municipal authority, representatives of the authorized trade union organization and the authorized association of employers.

The Social Council gives recommendations upon development and improvement of collective bargaining; influence of economic policy and measures for its implementation; wages and prices; competition and productivity; privatization and other issues of structural adjustment; protection of the workplace and environment; education and professional training; occupation, safety and health; social protection; demographic trends and other issues of importance for the implementation and improvement of economic and social policy.

Right to Strike

The Constitution of the Republic of Montenegro guarantees that the employed have the right to strike. Where a strike is to be organized, the strike committee is required to notify the employer of the strike in writing no later than five days prior to the day of the beginning of the strike or 24 hours before the beginning of the warning strike, if some other time period has not been stated in law. The decision for going to the sectoral or general strike must be submitted to the competent representative organisation of employers, the founder and the public administration body of the specific area 10 days prior to the day of the beginning of the strike.

The decision for going to strike in activities related to essential Services, public utility services and public services must be submitted to the competent representative organisation of employers, the founder and the public administrative body or the competent municipality body 10 days prior to the day set for the beginning of the strike.

The employees in defence forces of Montenegro, the police and state bodies, because the protection of public interest, can only organise a strike in a manner that will not jeopardize national security, safety of persons and property, public interest of citizens or the functioning of public authorities. This assessment is to be provided by the competent government authority for national security within 24 hours from the announcement of the strike. Where the competent government authority for national security has made an assessment that the activities would endanger national security, safety of persons and property, public interest of citizens or the functioning of public authorities, the strike cannot be organized.

Organization of a strike or participation in a strike under the conditions set forth by Law do not represent a violation of work duty, cannot be a ground for initiation of the procedure for determining disciplinary and material liability of an employee, for removing the employee from work and cannot lead to termination of employee's employment. An employee who participates in a strike is not entitled to a wage. An employee who is obliged to work during a strike, for the purpose of ensuring minimum work process is entitled to wage in proportion to the time spent at work.

In line with the Strike Law, employer cannot employ new persons who would replace the strike participants, unless the following is jeopardized: ensuring the minimum work process that provides for security of property and persons, as well as fulfillment of obligations arising from the ratified international treaties. An employer can neither prevent the employees from organizing and participating in a strike, nor use threats and coercion for ending a strike. Labour Law prohibits employer and temporary employment agencies from concluding agreement for substitution of employees during a legal strike.

Your personal score tells how much your employer lives up to national legal standards regarding work. To calculate your DecentWorkCheck, you must accumulate 1 point for each YES answer marked. Then compare it with the values in Table below:

Montenegro scored 47 times “YES” on 49 questions related to International Labour Standards

If your score is between 1 - 18

This score is unbelievable! Does your employer know we live in the 21st century? Ask for your rights. If there is a union active in your company or branch of industry, join it and appeal for help.

If your score is between 19 - 38

As you can see, there is ample room for improvement. But please don't tackle all these issues at once. Start where it hurts most. In the meantime, notify your union or WageIndicator about your situation, so they may help to improve it. When sending an email to us, please be specific about your complaint and if possible name your employer as well. Also, try and find out if your company officially adheres to a code known as Corporate Social Responsibility. If they do, they should live up to at least ILO standards. If they don't adhere to such a code yet, they should. Many companies do by now. You may bring this up.

If your score is between 39 - 49

You're pretty much out of the danger zone. Your employer adheres to most of the existing labour laws and regulations. But there is always room for improvement. So next time you talk to management about your work conditions, prepare well and consult this DecentWorkCheck as a checklist.
