Results

Your personal score tells how much your employer lives up to national legal standards regarding work. To calculate your DecentWorkCheck, you must accumulate 1 point for each YES answer marked. Then compare it with the values in Table below:

is your amount of "YES" accumulated.

Brazil scored 48 times "YES" on 49 questions related to International Labour Standards

If your score is between 1 - 18

This score is unbelievable! Does your employer know we live in the 21st century? Ask for your rights. If there is a union active in your company or branch of industry, join it and appeal for help.

If your score is between 19 - 38

As you can see, there is ample room for improvement. But please don't tackle all these issues at once. Start where it hurts most. In the meantime, notify your union or WageIndicator about your situation, so they may help to improve it. When sending an email to us, please be specific about your complaint and if possible name your employer as well. Also, try and find out if your company officially adheres to a code known as Corporate Social Responsibility. If they do, they should live up to at least ILO standards. If they don't adhere to such a code yet, they should. Many companies do by now. You may bring this up.

If your score is between 39 - 49

You're pretty much out of the danger zone. Your employer adheres to most of the existing labour laws and regulations. But there is always room for improvement. So next time you talk to management about your work conditions, prepare well and consult this DecentWorkCheck as a checklist.

01/13 Work & Wages

Regulations on work and wages:

Constitution of Federal Republic of Brazil, 1988

Consolidated Labour Laws (Law No. 5.452 of 1943)

Minimum Wage

The Brazilian constitution provides for a single national minimum wage which enables workers and their families to meet their basic living needs like housing, food, education, health, leisure, clothing, hygiene, transportation and social security with periodical adjustments to maintain the purchasing power of people. It also allows fixing minimum wages/base salary keeping in view the extent and complexity of work (sectoral or occupational as well as regional minimum wages allowed).

Minimum wage is minimum amount due and paid directly to the worker, including rural workers, without any distinction of sex, for regular day of work, which enables workers in every region of the country to satisfy their basic needs of food, housing, clothing, hygiene/health and transportation.

Under a new law, minimum wage is decided by the government alone through a decree thereby determining the hourly, daily and monthly minimum wage for workers for whom wages are not fixed through a federal law or collective bargaining agreement. Another law says that the real value of the minimum wage must correspond to R$545.00 (R$24.13 on daily basis and R$3.29 on hourly basis).

The minimum wages can be set differently for different occupations and regions keeping in view the federally set minimum wage work as a floor. Minimum wages may be paid in kind however the in-kind portion cannot be greater than 70% of the minimum wage set for region, zone or sub-zone. Those working in hazardous conditions (electricity or with fuels or other flammable materials) are entitled an additional 30% pay on their base salary. Workers are also entitled to either 10% or 20% or 40% premium on minimum wage depending on the degree of unhealthiness and danger for working in unhealthy working conditions.

Compliance with the Labour Code, including minimum wage provisions, is ensured by the labour inspectors. Non-compliance with minimum wage provisions is punishable offence and a fine of R$ 52,000 is imposed. The fine is doubled in the case of repeat offence.

Regular Pay

In accordance with the Consolidated Labour Laws, wage period can't be longer than one month, except with regard to commissions, percentages and bonuses. When the wage period is one month, workers are to be paid their wages within five (5) days at the end of the month. Wages may be paid in cash or in kind. Wages are paid on a receipt signed by the employee or through fingerprint/thumb expression if the employee is illiterate. Wages are to be paid on a working day and in the working place during the working hours or immediately at the end of working except when deposited in the bank account.

Workers are provided an additional salary each year. The 13th salary is a gratification equivalent to a month salary and paid in two installments. It is paid in November and December.

02/13 Compensation

Regulations on compensation:

Constitution of Federal Republic of Brazil, 1988
Consolidated Labour Laws (Law No. 5.452 of 1943)

Overtime Compensation

Maximum working hours are 8 hours a day and 44 hours a week for day-time workers. The standard eight-hour work day may be reduced in certain jobs where employees are exposed to the hazardous or dangerous working conditions either due to the nature of activity or fatigue. Similarly, for night workers, regular hour is reduced from 60 minutes to 52 minutes and 30 seconds which is equal to 7 hours. Workers and employer may determine the length of a working day however they cannot exceed the legal maximum. Working hours can be extended beyond the normal daily and weekly hours due to exceptional and extraordinary circumstances however these hours may not exceed 2 hours a day. The remuneration for overtime hours is 150% of the normal wage rate.

In line with Labour Law reform of 2017 (Law No. 13467/2017), daily working hours can be increased to 12 hours per day however weekly limit of 44 hours remains. Where a worker is working 12 hours per day, he is entitled to 36 hours of weekly rest.

Earlier, the part-time work was limited to 25 hours per week without the overtime option. Under the 2017 reform, the maximum working hours for part-time workers are 30 hours per week without overtime. The maximum working hours are 26 hours per week with the option of 6 overtime hours per week. While the salary of part-time workers is proportional to their working hours, they are eligible for the same paid annual leave.

Night Work Compensation

Work performed between 22:00 hours and 05:00 hours is considered night work. Those working at night have to work only 7 hours to be eligible for full wages. In Brazil, night workers are also paid a premium rate for working at night which is 120% of the normal wage during the day. Rather their work hours are reduced from 8 hours to 7 hours.

03/13 Annual Leave & Holidays

Regulations on annual leave and holidays:

Constitution of Federal Republic of Brazil, 1988

Consolidated Labour Laws (Law No. 5.452 of 1943)

Paid Vacation / Annual Leave

Workers are entitled to paid annual leave with additional vacation bonus (of one-third of employee's monthly salary) in Brazil however its length depends on the number of absences during the year. Annual Leave in Brazil is not affected by the length of service/seniority. It is:

- i. 30 calendar days when the worker was absent for no more than 5 days;
- ii. 24 days when the workers was absent between 6 and 14 days;
- iii. 18 days when the worker was absent between 15 and 23 days; and
- iv. 12 days when the worker was absent between 24 and 32 days

The qualifying period for annual leave is one year. The annual leave is granted during one year after a worker's entitlement to it. Workers may be granted annual leave in two different periods, none of which should be less than ten (10) calendar days. The timing of annual leave grant may take into account the interests of employer. If leave is granted after one year of its entitlement, employer has to pay double remuneration during annual leave. Employees are entitled to convert one-third of their annual leave to cash payment. Workers working less than or equal to 25 hours a week are considered part time workers. These workers are also entitled to annual leave as follows:

- i. eighteen days for workers working between 22 to 25 hours a week;
- ii. sixteen days for workers working between 20 to 22 hours a week;
- iii. fourteen days for workers working between 15 to 20 hours a week;
- iv. twelve days for workers working between 10 to 15 hours a week;
- v. ten days for workers working between 5 to 10 hours a week; and
- vi. eight days for workers working less than or equal to 5 hours a week

In line with Labour Law reform of 2017 (Law No. 13467/2017), the 30-day annual leave can be split, by mutual agreement, into three periods. One of the periods must be 14 consecutive calendar days while none of the split periods can be less than 5 calendar days. The annual leave must start within 2 days before the weekly rest day or public holiday.

Pay on Public Holidays

Workers are entitled to paid holidays during Festival (public and religious) holidays. These include memorial holidays and religious holidays (Christian origin). The Public Holidays are usually eleven (11) in number. Public Holidays in Brazil are of three types: national, state and municipal holidays> National Public Holidays are governed under Law No. 662 of 1949 and these are January 01, April 21, May 01, September 07, November 02, November 15 and December 25. The religious holidays are governed under Law No. 9.903 of 1995. Art. 2 of Law No. 9.903 provides that religious holidays are declared in municipal law according to the local tradition and can't be more than four in number. These four holidays include the Good Friday.

Weekly Rest Days

Weekly rest period is provided under the Constitution and Consolidated Labour Laws. Every worker is entitled to enjoy a weekly rest of 24 hours. The weekly rest day is Sunday. In jobs requiring continuous work, employer and worker may agree on some other day as the weekly rest day.

Working on weekly rest day is usually prohibited however it may be allowed by the competent authority, i.e., the Ministry of Labour, Industry and Trade considering the reasons of public convenience or unavoidable service requirements. If a worker has to work on weekly rest day, he is entitled to 200% of the normal wage rate.

04/13 Employment Security

Regulations on employment security:

Constitution of Federal Republic of Brazil, 1988

Consolidated Labour Laws (Law No. 5.452 of 1943)

Written Employment Particulars

A contract of employment may be tacitly agreed or expressly executed orally or in writing for a fixed term or an indefinite term. Fixed term contracts include contracts duration is pre-determined, whose duration depends on the performance of some specific service or some event whose end can be approximately predicted. Consolidated Labour Laws also require an employer to maintain employee data (in books) which will include civil or professional qualification of employees, duration of work contract, holidays, accidents and other relevant information. Although written contract is not mandatory however in order to get the carteira de Trabalho e Previdência Social (CTPS, the Work and Social Security Card), employer must provide the employee with a document containing information on the start date of employment contract, the nature of work, salary and form of payment.

Source: §13, 41 & 442-456 of the Consolidated Labour Laws (Law No. 5.452 of 1943)

Fixed Term Contracts

Brazilian labour Law prohibits hiring fixed term contract workers for tasks of permanent nature (EWI).

Fixed term employment contracts may be executed for a maximum period of two years and if the employment relationship continues after expiry of this two-year period, the contract is considered effective for an indefinite term.

In order to reform its labour laws, Brazil allowed the companies, in March 2017, to outsource any jobs, even those related to the core business of an enterprise. Under the Outsourcing Law (Lei da Terceirização), temporary employment contract can be used to meet the temporary replacement of the staff or complementary demand of services. This includes both foreseeable and unforeseeable demand and can be used to replace (illegally) striking workers. The initial term of the temporary contract is 180 days which can be extended by 90 days (whether consecutive or not). Outsourcing was earlier allowed only for ancillary activities case law precedent No. 331 of the Brazilian Superior Labor Court. However, with this law, outsourcing is allowed for virtually any activity. Under the new law, it is the joint liability of the service provider (temporary work agency) and the contract party. If the service provider does not pay the worker his dues or does not honour other commitments, the contracting party will be brought to justice to honour the commitments.

DECENTWORKCHECK.ORG

In line with Labour Law reform of 2017 (Law No. 13467/2017), there is a provision for intermittent work where a worker is informed of the work opportunity when there is demand. A worker may decline such work opportunity as well. Under this type of contract, there are periods of work and periods of inactivity. The workers with intermittent contract are eligible to wages and other benefits proportional to their workload.

Source: §445 of the Consolidated Labour Laws (Law No. 5.452 of 1943); Lei No. 13.429n

Probation Period

Maximum duration of probationary/trial period is fixed as 90 days. Probationary contract is like a fixed term contract and it may be extended only once. However, the total probationary period, even after extension can't be greater than 90 days. If an employee works beyond trial period, he is considered hired for an indefinite term.

Source: §445 & 451 of the Consolidated Labour Laws (Law No. 5.452 of 1943)

Notice Requirement

Either party which wishes to cancel an employment contract of indefinite duration without a just cause is required to give a notice or pay in lieu of notice to the other party as follows:

- i. eight days in advance if wages are paid weekly or at shorter intervals;
- ii. thirty days in advance if wages are paid on fortnightly or monthly basis or if the employee's length of service in the enterprise exceeds 12 months. However, according to a new Law No. 12.506 of 2011, notice period will be 30 days for workers who have a work experience of one year with the same company. The notice requirement will increase by 3 days for every year of service in the same company to a maximum of 60 days, thus making the total notice period for an employee with 20 years of service as 90 days.

In line with Labour Law reform of 2017 (Law No. 13467/2017), employers are not required to obtain the trade union's prior authorization or to enter into an agreement with trade union to implement collective dismissals. Now employment termination agreement can be done between the worker and employer. Similarly, irrespective of the worker's length of service, a worker's termination does not need ratification by the regional office of the Ministry of Labour.

Severance Pay

Workers are entitled to a termination payment (verbas rescisórias) in the event of dismissal. The legal obligations for the employers depend upon the duration of contract as well as the type of termination. For indefinite term contracts:

- i. employees are entitled to salary balance, prior notice period (30-90 days), pro-rated salary for 13th month, pro-rated vacations with one-third additional payment, and total balance available with Federal Service Indemnity Fund/Guarantee Fund for Severance Pay (FGTS) if it is a just-cause termination;
- ii. employees are entitled to salary balance, pro-rated vacations with one-third additional payment, pro-rated 13th salary and total balance available Federal Service Indemnity Fund (FGTS) if employment relationship is terminated on employee's intuitive (resignation);
- iii. employees are entitled to salary balance, prior notice period (30-90 days), pro-rated vacations with one-third additional payment, pro-rated 13th salary, total balance available Federal Service Indemnity Fund (FGTS) and a special fine of 50% of the total amount deposited in the FGTS (40% of this amount is paid to the worker while 10% to the government as special social security contribution) if it is an arbitrary/unfair or no just cause dismissal.

For definite term/fixed term contracts:

- i. employees are entitled to salary balance, pro-rated vacations with one-third additional payment, pro-rated 13th salary and total balance available Federal Service Indemnity Fund (FGTS) if employment relationship is terminated on employee's intuitive (resignation) or due to the expiration of fixed term contract;
- ii. employees are entitled to half of the amount he/she would be entitled to be paid from the dismissal date to the end of contract term, salary balance, prior notice period (30-90 days), pro-rated vacations with one-third additional payment, pro-rated 13th salary, total balance available Federal Service Indemnity Fund (FGTS) and a special fine of 50% of the total amount deposited in the FGTS (40% of this amount is paid to the worker while 10% to the government as special social security contribution) if it is an arbitrary/unfair or no just cause dismissal.

Federal Service Indemnity Fund, established under Law No. 8.036 of 1990, is a mandatory savings account for the benefit of employees who may withdraw funds deposited into under certain circumstances established under the law including retirement and severe diseases esp. in the event of unfair dismissal. Employers are required to make contributions to FGTS (Fundo de Garantia por Tempo de Serviço) in an amount of 8% of an employee's monthly remuneration. The company contributions are made in employee's limited/blocked access bank account managed by the Federal Savings Bank. If an employee is terminated for just cause or in the event of retirement or resignation, he/she gets the total amount deposited in the account plus any interest accrued over time. In the case of unfair dismissal, employer has to pay a penalty corresponding to 40% of the total amount deposited in FGTS to the employee and 10% of the total amount deposited in FGTS to the government. (Art. 477-500 of Consolidated Labour Laws & Art. 18 of Law No. 8.036 of 1990)

DECENTWORKCHECK.ORG

In line with Labour Law reform of 2017 (Law No. 13467/2017), the employment contract can be terminated by mutual agreement between the parties, i.e., the worker and the employer. In such a case, worker is eligible for half the amount of dismissal notice (50% payment in lieu of notice) and the indemnity calculated on the Employee Severance Fund (FGTS)'s balance (20% fine over FGTS balance). The worker is allowed to withdraw from the FGTS account, up to 80% of the available balance. However, in such case, worker cannot apply for Government Unemployment Insurance Program.

05/13 Family Responsibilities

Regulations on family responsibilities:

Constitution of Federal Republic of Brazil, 1988

Consolidated Labour Laws (Law No. 5.452 of 1943)

Paternity Leave

Workers are entitled to five days of paid paternity leave on the birth of a child in accordance with the provisions of Constitution. Other than this, a 2016 law provides for 15 days of paid paternity leave for workers in the companies enrolled in Corporate Citizenship Program. The extended leave is available to the worker if he applies for the extension within two days of the birth of the child and provides evidence of his participation in the paternity orientation program or other equivalent activity. Workers are entitled to their full remuneration during the term of paternity leave and its extension. The first five days are paid by the employer while the extended 15-day leave is paid by the employer and is deducted from the payable income tax owed to the federal revenue.

Free Protection

Employers are required to provide free personal protective equipment (PPE) to the workers in order to avoid the occurrence of workplace hazards. Such equipment should be appropriate to the risks present at the workplace and when general measures don't provide complete protection against accidents or injury to the health of employees. Workers are also required to use the personal protective equipment provided by the company.

Law also requires that PPE may be used or offered for sale only after a certificate of approval from Ministry of Labour. Labour law further requires an employer to provide different types of personal protective equipment like goggles, ear plugs, gloves, masks, safety shoes, etc, to the workers to ensure their safety.

Disability / Work Injury Benefit

Work injuries are divided into four categories: (i) permanent total incapacity (ii) permanent partial incapacity (iii) temporary incapacity and (iv) fatal injury leading to death of a worker.

There is no minimum qualifying period and injuries on the way to and from workplace are covered. (Art. 30)

In the case of permanent total incapacity/disability, 100% of the insured's earnings is paid. Average earnings used to calculate benefits are based the best 80% of total monthly earnings. If the disabled worker needs constant attendance, 25% is added to this amount.

In the case of permanent partial incapacity (when the disabled can do some kind of work) 50% of average earnings is paid. Average earnings used to calculate benefits are based on the best 80% of total monthly earnings. (Art. 104)

In the case of temporary disability, from first to 15th day 100% of the wage is paid by the employer. From the 16th day and to unlimited time, social security provides 91% of the insured's earnings. Average earnings used to calculate benefits are based on the best 80% of total monthly earnings. For rural workers, average earnings are 100% of the legal monthly minimum wage. (Art. 39 and 71-72)

In the case of fatal injury, 100% of the pension the deceased received or was eligible to receive is paid and split equally among eligible survivors. If one survivor ceases to be eligible, the pensions for the remaining survivors are recalculated.

Eligible survivors include the widow(er) or partner and children younger than age 21 (no limit if disabled); if there is no widow(er), partner, or child, other eligible survivors include (in order of priority) parents and brothers and sisters younger than age 21 (no limit if disabled). 10/13 Fair Treatment

Regulations on fair treatment:

Constitution of Federal Republic of Brazil, 1988
Consolidated Labour Laws (Law No. 5.452 of 1943)

Equal Pay

The Federal Constitution prohibits differences in wages, in performance of duties and hiring criteria by reason of sex, age, color or marital status. In accordance with the Consolidated Labour Laws, equal work should draw equal pay regardless of gender, nationality and age. Work of equal value means work done with the same productivity, technical expertise and with similar length of service not exceeding 2 years. It means law allows wage differentials on the basis differences in productivity, technical expertise and seniority exceeding two years. Law provides for equal pay for equal work without any discrimination on the basis of gender.

In line with Labour Law reform of 2017, equal pay is available to workers who meet the following conditions: the workers have worked for the same employer for at least four years, have equivalent job description/responsibilities, have similar professional skills and work performance, work in the same business unit and have equivalent seniority (less than two years in the same position).

Sexual Harassment

Sexual harassment is defined in the Criminal Code as an act " to impose upon someone with the purpose of obtaining favors of a sexual nature, abusing the relationship of authority or superiority inherent to the discharge of one's position or function". The civil code however recognizes harassment by direct or indirect hierarchical superior of the victim. Sexual harassment is considered a crime in Brazil and perpetrator may be have to face one to two years of imprisonment. The imprisonment may be increased to three year if the victim is under the age of 18 years. The law however does not recognize harassment by a co-worker or subordinate. Since employers are required to keep their workplace free from of risks to the employees, they may be found liable for acts of their employees and representatives in the performance of their services. A sexually harassed employee may claim compensation from the employer based on sexual harassment in the workplace. Harassment at the workplace may also cause an employee to terminate his/her employment contract.

Non-Discrimination

The Federal Constitution prohibits differences in wages, in performance of duties and hiring criteria on grounds of sex, age, color or marital status. Similar safeguards have been recommended for handicapped/disabled workers. The Constitution considers it one of the fundamental objectives of the state to promote the good of everyone, without distinction as to origin, race, sex, color, age and any other forms of discrimination. The Constitution further provides that all individuals are equal and punishes all forms of discrimination against fundamental rights and freedoms. Discrimination on racial grounds is a very serious crime which is not subject to bail and is not time-barred.

The Consolidated Labour Laws prohibits certain discriminatory practices like:

- i. advertising a job/employment offer in which there is reference to sex, age, color, or family situation unless the nature of activity performed so requires;
- ii. refusing employment, promotion or dismissing a worker on the basis of sex, age, color, family situation and pregnancy;
- iii. considering sex, age, color or family situation for determining variable remuneration (or raising salary), training and career opportunities;
- iv. pregnancy discrimination by requiring the workers to submit the certificate as a condition of hiring or continued employment;
- v. denying registration for job competitions in the private companies based on sex, age, color, family situation or pregnancy; and
- vi. requiring female employees to submit to intimate inspections.

Law 9.029 of 1995 prohibits discrimination on the grounds of sex, origin, race, color, marital status, family status or age for access to employment or its retention. It is considered a crime, with an imprisonment of one to two years and a fine, if employer asks the employee to provide certificate that she is not pregnant or promotes birth control. Law No. 7.716 of 1989 prohibits discrimination on the grounds of race, color, ethnicity, religion or national origin and provides for different types of penalties (imprisonment terms ranging from 2-5 years). The Racial Equity Statute (Law No. 12.288 of 2010) requires the government to take actions for promoting equal opportunities for black population. Law No. 10.741 of 2003 prohibits discrimination on the grounds of age (over 60 years) in employment. Older workers have the right to engage in any professional employment activity and any discrimination in the hiring process based on age of workers is prohibited. Law No. 7.783 of 1999 prohibits discrimination against union workers or strike. The Federal Constitution prohibits anti-union discrimination of those employees who are candidates or are current holders of union leadership. Law no. 12984 of 2 June 2014 considers it a crime to discriminate against HIV carriers and AIDS patients. That person is punishable by imprisonment of one (1) to 4 (four) years and a fine.

13/13 Trade Unions

Regulations on trade unions:

Constitution of Federal Republic of Brazil, 1988

Consolidated Labour Laws (Law No. 5.452 of 1943)

Freedom to Join and Form a Union

Constitution and consolidated labour laws provide for freedom of association and allow workers and employer to join and form unions as well as professional associations (except for armed forces, uniformed police and firefighters). Workers are allowed to join unions without prior authorization. Similarly, no one can be forced to join or not join a union. Law also requires that there can be only one trade union to represent an occupational or economic category in a given area, as defined by workers and employers.

In line with Labour Law reform of 2017 (Law No. 13467/2017), union contribution is now voluntary (earlier it was compulsory) and depends on the worker's prior and express consent to it. Moreover, though the affiliation with trade union is voluntary, trade unions have the right to represent all workers within their trade or territory to conclude collective bargaining agreements.

Source: §8 of the Constitution of Brazil, last amended in 2016; §511-514 of the Consolidated Labour Laws (Law No. 5.452 of 1943)

Freedom of Collective Bargaining

Right to collective bargaining is guaranteed under the Constitution as unions are required to participate in the collective negotiations and regulated under the Consolidated Labour Laws. Unions and employers can reach agreement on various working conditions. However, according to the Consolidated Labour Laws, a collective agreement may be declared null and void if it conflicts with the government economic or financial policy or the wage policy in force.

Certain provisions must be added in a collective agreement. These include information about the parties concluding the agreement, validity period of agreement, categories or classes of workers covered by the agreement; etc. Parties to a collective agreement are not allowed to stipulate duration of a collective agreement that exceeds two years. Consolidated Labour Law requires that a new collective agreement must be signed within 60 days before expiration of a collective agreement in place.

Economic and Social Development Council (CDES) is the permanent tripartite-plus advisory body which has 108 members. The Council is convened by the President of the Republic and has the right to issue its opinions. It is responsible for advising the President on formulation of specific policies and guidelines for economic and social development.

Minimum wage: Convention 131 (1970)

Regular pay & wage protection: Conventions 95 (1949) and 117(1962)

Brazil has ratified the Conventions 95, 117 & 131 only.

Minimum wage

The minimum wage must cover the living expenses of the employee and his/her family members. Moreover it must relate reasonably to the general level of wages earned and the living standard of other social groups.

Regular Pay

Wages must be paid regularly on a daily, weekly, fortnightly or monthly basis.

02/13 CompensationILO Conventions on Compensation

Compensation overtime: Convention 01 (1919); Night work: Convention 171 (1990)

Brazil has ratified the Convention 171 only.

Overtime Compensation

Working overtime is to be avoided. Whenever it is unavoidable, extra compensation is at stake - minimally the basic hourly wage plus all additional benefits you are entitled to. In accordance with ILO Convention 1, overtime pay rate should not be less than one and a quarter times (125%) the regular rate.

Night Work Compensation

Night work means all work which is performed during a period of not less than seven (07) consecutive hours, including the interval from midnight to 5 a.m. A night worker is a worker whose work requires performance of a substantial number of hours of night work which exceeds a specified limit (at least 3 hours). Convention 171 requires that night workers be compensated with reduced working time or higher pay or similar benefits. Similar provisions are found in the Night Work Recommendation No. 178 of 1990.

Compensatory Holidays/Rest Days

If you have to work on a national/religious holiday or a weekly rest day, you should be entitled to compensation. Not necessarily in the same week, provided that the right to a paid compensation is not.

Weekend/Public Holiday work Compensation

If you have to work during the weekend, you should thereby acquire the right to a rest period of 24 uninterrupted hours instead. Not necessarily in the weekend, but at least in the course of the following week. Similarly, if you have to work on a public holiday, you must be given a compensatory holiday. A higher rate of pay for working on a public holiday or a weekly rest day does not take your right to a holiday/ rest.

03/13 Annual Leave & Holidays

ILO Conventions on weekly rest days and paid annual leave

Convention 132 (1970) on Holidays with Pay Convention Conventions 14 (1921), 47 (1935) and 106 (1957) for weekly rest days. In addition, for several industries, different Conventions apply.

Brazil has ratified the Conventions 14, 106 & 132 only.

Paid Vacation/Annual Leave

An employee is entitled to at least 21 consecutive paid annual leave. National and religious holidays are not included. Collective agreements must provide at least one day of annual leave on full remuneration for every 17 days on which the employee worked or was entitled to be paid.

Pay on Public Holidays

You should be entitled to paid leave during national and officially recognized public holidays.

Weekly Rest Day

Workers should enjoy a rest period of at least twenty-four consecutive hours in every 7 day period, i.e., a week

04/13 Employment Security

ILO Conventions on employment termination

Convention 158 (1982) on employment termination

Brazil has ratified the Convention 158.

The questions under this section measure the security or even flexibility or precariousness of an employment relationship. Although these are not clearly mentioned in a single convention (severance pay and notice requirement are provided in the Termination of Employment Convention No. 158) however, the best practices in the field require that employees be provided with a written contract of employment; workers on fixed term contracts should not be hired for tasks of permanent nature; a reasonable probation period (ideally lower than or equal to 6 months) may be followed to assess the suitability of an employee; a period of notice must be specified in an employment contract before severing the employment relationship; and workers be paid severance allowance on termination of employment relationship.

Written Employment Particulars

A contract of employment may be oral or written however workers should be provided with a written statement of employment at the start of their employment.

Fixed Term Contracts

Fixed Term Contract workers must not be hired for permanent tasks as it leads to precarious employment.

Probation Period

A reasonable probation period must be provided to a worker to learn new skills. A newly hired employee may be fired during probation period without any negative consequences.

Notice Requirement

A reasonable notice period, depending on the length of service of an employee, may be required before an employer may sever the employment relationship.

Severance Pay

Employers may be required to pay a severance allowance on termination of employment (due to redundancy or any other reason except for lack of capacity or misconduct).

05/13 Family ResponsibilitiesILO Conventions on family responsibilities

Convention 156: Workers with Family Responsibilities Convention (1981)

Recommendation 165: Workers with Family Responsibilities (1981)

Brazil has not ratified the Conventions 156 & 165.

Paternity Leave

This is for the new fathers around the time of child birth and is usually of shorter duration.

Parental Leave

The accompanying recommendation (No. 165) to ILO Convention on Family Responsibilities provides for parental leave as an option available to either parent to take long leave of absence (paid or unpaid) without resigning from work. Parental leave is usually taken once the maternity and paternity leave have been exhausted. For working parents, laws may define the portion of parental leave that has to be compulsorily taken by fathers or mothers.

Flexible Work Option for Parents / Work-Life Balance

Recommendation 165 asks for looking into measures for improving general working conditions through flexible work arrangements.

06/13 Maternity and WorkILO Conventions on maternity and work

An earlier Convention (103 from 1952) prescribed at least 12 weeks maternity leave, 6 weeks before and 6 weeks after. However, a later convention (No. 183 from year 2000) requires that maternity leave be at least 14 weeks of which a period of six weeks compulsory leave should be after childbirth.

Brazil has ratified the Convention 103 only.

Free medical care

During pregnancy and maternity leave, you should be entitled to medical and midwife care without any additional cost.

No harmful work

During pregnancy and while breastfeeding, you should be exempt from work that might bring harm to you or your baby.

Maternity leave

Your maternity leave should last at least 14 weeks.

Income

During maternity leave, your income should amount to at least two thirds of your preceding salary.

Protection from Dismissals

During pregnancy and maternity leave, you should be protected from dismissal or any other discriminatory treatment.

Right to return to same position

Workers have the right to return to same or equivalent position after availing maternity leave.

Breastfeeding/Nursing Breaks

After child birth and your rejoining your organization, you must be allowed paid nursing breaks for breastfeeding your child.

07/13 Health & SafetyILO Conventions on Health and Safety

Most ILO OSH Conventions deal with very specific Occupational Safety hazards, such as asbestos and chemicals.

Convention 155 (1981) is the relevant general convention here. Labour Inspection Convention: 81 (1947)

Brazil has ratified both Conventions 81 & 155.

Employer cares

Your employer, in all fairness, should make sure that the work process is safe.

Free protection

Your employer should provide protective clothing and other necessary safety precautions for free.

Training

In order to ensure workplace safety and health, a central, independent and efficient labour inspection system should be present.

Labour Inspection System

You and your colleagues should receive training in all work related safety and health aspects and you should have been shown the emergency exits.

08/13 Sick Leave & Employment Injury BenefitsILO Conventions on Sickness and Employment Injury

Convention 102 (1952), Conventions 121 (1964) and 130 (1969) concerning Social Security, Employment Injury Benefits and Medical Care and Sickness Benefits

Brazil has ratified the Convention 102 only.

Income/Paid Sick Leave

Your rights to work and income should be protected when illness strikes. The national labour law may provide that sickness benefit may not be paid during the first 3 days of your absence. Minimally you should be entitled to an income during first 6 months of illness. This income should be at least 45 per cent of the minimum wage. (Countries are free to opt for a system which guarantees 60 per cent of the last wages during the first 6 months of illness or even during the first year). You should be entitled to paid sick leave.

Medical Care

During illness, you should be entitled to medical care without any additional cost. Employees and their family members should have access to the necessary minimal medical care at an affordable cost.

Job security

During the first 6 months of your illness, you should not be fired.

Disability/Work Injury Benefit

Whenever you are disabled due to an occupational disease or accident, you ought to receive a higher benefit. In the case of temporary or total incapacity/disability, a worker may at least be provided 50% of his average wage while in the case of fatal injury, the survivors may be provided with 40% of the deceased worker's average wage in periodical payments.

09/13 Social SecurityILO Conventions on Social Security

Social Security (minimum standards): Convention 102 (1952). For several benefits somewhat higher standards have been set in subsequent Conventions

Employment Injury Benefits: Conventions 121 (1964),

Invalidity, Old age and survivors' benefits: Convention 128(1967)

Medical Care and Sickness Benefits: Convention 130 (1969)

Unemployment Benefits: Convention 168 (1988).

Brazil has ratified the Convention 102 & 168 only.

Pension Rights

In the normal circumstances, the pensionable age may not be set higher than 65 years of age. If retirement age is fixed above 65 years, it should give "due regard to the working ability of elderly persons" and "demographic, economic and social criteria, which shall be demonstrated statistically". Pension can be set as a percentage of the minimum wage or a percentage of the earned wage.

Dependent's/Survivors' Benefit

When the breadwinner has died, the spouse and children are entitled to a benefit, expressed as a percentage of the minimum wage, or a percentage of the earned wage. This must at least be 40% of the reference wage.

Unemployment Benefit

For a limited period of time, the unemployed has a right to unemployment benefit set as a percentage of the minimum wage or a percentage of the earned wage.

Invalidity Benefits

Invalidity benefit is provided when a protected person is unable to engage in a gainful employment, before standard retirement age, due to a non-occupational chronic condition resulting in disease, injury or disability. Invalidity Benefit must at least be 40% of the reference wage.

10/13 Fair TreatmentILO Conventions on Fair Treatment

Convention 111 (1958) lists the discrimination grounds which are forbidden.

Convention 100 (1952) is about Equal Remuneration for Work of Equal Value.

Brazil has ratified both Conventions 100 & 111.

Equal Pay

At workplaces equal pay for men and women for work of equal value is a must, regardless of marital status. Pay inequality based on race, colour, sex, religion, political opinion, national extraction/place of birth or social origin is also forbidden. A transparent remuneration system and the clear matching of pay and position should be in place and to help prevent wage discrimination.

Sexual Harassment

Not clearly provided in ILO Conventions. However, sexual intimidation/harassment is gender discrimination.

Non-Discrimination

Your employer can't discriminate against you on in any aspect of employment (appointment, promotion, training and transfer) on the basis of union membership or participation in union activities, filing of a complaint against an employer, race, colour, sex, marital status, family responsibilities, pregnancy, religion, political opinion, national extraction or social origin, temporary absence due to illness, age, trade union membership, disability/HIV-AIDS, or absence from work during maternity leave. (Conventions 111, 156, 158, 159 and 183)

Equal Choice of Profession

People have the right to work and there can't be occupational segregation on the basis of gender.

11/13 Minors & YouthILO Conventions on Minors & Youth

Minimum Age: Convention 138 (1973)

Worst Forms of Child labour: Convention 182 (1999)

Brazil has ratified both Conventions 138 & 182.

Minimum Age for Employment

At workplaces, children may not be forced to perform work that could harm their health and hampers their physical and mental development.

All children should be able to attend school. Once this is safeguarded, there is no objection against children performing light jobs between the ages of 12 and 14. The general minimum age is 15 years however developing countries may set this at 14 years. The minimum age for hazardous work, work that is likely to jeopardize the health, safety or morals of young persons, is 18 years. It can also be set at a lower level of 16 years under certain circumstances

Minimum Age for Hazardous Work

Children should not be employed in a work that is likely to harm the health, safety or morals of children. It is considered one of the worst forms of child labour. The minimum age for such hazardous work is 18 years.

12/13 Forced LabourILO Conventions on Forced/Bonded labour

Forced labour: Conventions 29 (1930)

Abolition of Forced labour: Conventions 105 (1957)

Forced labour is the work one has to perform under threat of punishment: forfeit of wages, dismissal, harassment or violence, even corporal punishment. Forced labour means violation of human rights.

Brazil has ratified both Conventions 29 & 105.

Prohibition on Forced and Compulsory labour

Except for certain exceptions, forced or compulsory labour (exacted under the threat of punishment and for which you may not have offered voluntarily) is prohibited.

Freedom to change jobs and Right to quit

Employers have to allow you to look for work elsewhere. If you do, you should not be shortened on wages or threatened with dismissal. (In the reverse cases, international law considers this as forced labour).

Inhumane Working Conditions

If the total working hours, inclusive of overtime exceed 56 hours per week, the worker is considered to be working under inhumane working conditions.

13/13 Trade UnionILO Conventions on Trade Union Rights

Freedom of association and protection of the right to organize: Convention 87 (1948)

Right to Organize and Collective Bargaining: Convention 98 (1949)

Brazil has ratified the Convention 98 only.

Freedom to join and form a union

Freedom of association means freedom to join a trade union. This is part of the fundamental human rights. Employees may not be put at a disadvantage when they are active in the trade union outside working hours. The list of exclusions for sectors of economic activity and workers in an organization should be short.

Freedom of Collective Bargaining

Trade unions are entitled to negotiate with employers on term of employment without hindrance. The freedom of a trade union to negotiate with employers to try and conclude collective agreements is protected. (The ILO has a special procedure for handling complaints from unions about violation of this principle).

Right to Strike

Workers have the right to strike in order to defend their social and economic interests. It is incidental and corollary to the right to organize provided in ILO convention 87.

About Decent Work and Decent Work Check

Compare your own situation with the international labour standards and how they are applied in Brazil. At the end of the checklist you will see how things stand for you. You may be better off than what the international standards prescribe, but you should not be worse off. Behind every answer, you can find a short explanation of what your rights are; nationally and internationally. So you see right away if you can improve your situation.

The Decent Work Check makes the pretty abstract Conventions and legal texts tangible. Because, in the end, you want to know what your rights on the job mean in practice, what you may claim and what protection you are entitled to in case something unexpectedly does go wrong. The Decent Work Check employs double comparison system. It first compares national laws with international labour standards and gives a score to the national situation (happy or sad face). It allows workers to compare their real situation with national regulations in the country. Workers then compare their own score both at national and international levels. The Decent Work Check is based on de jure labour provisions, as found in the labour legislation. The real practice is informed by the employees themselves. This Check is different from other indices like World Bank's Doing Business Indicators or even ISSA's Social Security Programs throughout the World as it is not only descriptive in nature (bereft of any subjective opinions) but also that it covers a lot of different variables. The Revised Decent Work Check is also designed while taking into account upcoming Decent Work Indicators. While Decent Work Indicators focus more on statistics, our priority is informing workers about their rights through this Decent Work Check. Decent Work Check is useful both for employees and employers. It gives them knowledge, which is the first step towards any improvement. It informs employees of their rights at the workplace while simultaneously enlightening employers about their obligations. Decent Work Check is also useful for researchers, labour rights organizations conducting surveys on the situation of rights at work and general public wanting to know more about the world of work.

WageIndicator teams, around the world, have found out that workers, small employers and labour inspectors don't even know the labour law.

When you are informed - being a workers, self-employed, employee, employer, policy maker, labour inspector - there is a greater possibility that you ask for your rights (as a worker), you comply with rules (as an employer) and you strive to enforce these (as a labour inspector). As soon as you complete the DecentWorkCheck, you see which issues need improvement in your work life.

This is exactly the strategy chosen in the debates in many WageIndicator countries. In the debates with roughly 20-30 people around the table from all sides, the decent Work Check has soon the effect of a mini social dialogue. The people who run the dialogue are equally well informed.

The international labour standards are laid down in ILO-Conventions. ILO is the specialised body of the United Nations working on labour issues and was founded in 1919. In the ILO, negotiations are always going on between governments of the member states, national trade unions and employers associations regarding work related issues like rights at work and social protection. These negotiations may take years, but eventually lead to so called Conventions or Recommendations. In Conventions, minimum standards are laid down. Conventions are not the law, but the intention is that member states subscribe to the standard in question. The proper way to do that is to have these Conventions ratified by parliament and then make national laws (Some countries may follow the system of self-executing treaties). National law can be enforced. ILO-Conventions are usually accompanied by Recommendations on how to implement the standards.

Since 1999, the ILO works according to the so called Decent Work Agenda. In the meantime, the Decent Work Agenda has been widely accepted as an important strategy to fight poverty and foster development. The Agenda has been incorporated in the Millennium Development Goals of the United Nations. In short, the idea behind Decent Work is first of all an income which allows the working individual a good life. Moreover, at work, everybody has an equal chance to develop themselves; working conditions are safe; there is no instance of child and forced/bonded labour; and discrimination does not occur. Trade unions are allowed a real say in work related matters and the state has created a social safety net for all especially for the sick, weak, elderly and expecting women.
